California-based McCoy Aviation, Inc. announced this week the selection of Michael Charves of Pasco, Washington as the company's new Director of Sales for the Northwestern Region of the United States.

WESTLAKE VILLAGE, CA, March 6, 2007 - California-based McCoy Aviation, Inc. announced this week the selection of Michael Charves of Pasco, Washington as the company's new Director of Sales for the Northwestern Region of the United States.

McCoy Aviation, Inc. is a leading aircraft sales & services firm headquartered in southern California, specializing in the sale of general aviation, executive and commercial passenger aircraft. The company's offices are located in between the Van Nuys and Camarillo airports, and serve clients ranging from personal aircraft owners to corporate air carriers. Sensing a demand for higher service expectations, McCoy Aviation has set forward new operating principles geared directly at local, direct client service.

"We are excited to have sourced someone with Mr. Charves' diverse aviation and sales experience. He's the right man for the job," company CEO Mark McCoy said in a statement Tuesday. "Michael's joining the McCoy Aviation team is only the beginning of our renewed vision to better serve our clients with local, experienced and personalized service."

As the Director of the company's Northwestern Sales Region, Mr. Charves will oversee direct client account management pertaining to aircraft sales, leasing, consultation, maintenance, storage, and a number of custom-tailored aviation services the company provides.
